GOLD DISCOVERED IN WALES.

LODE: OF EXTRAORDINARY RICHNESS STRUCK IN MERIONETHSHIRE.

Every Indication of the Presence of a Gold-Bearing Strata of Almost Indefinite Extent-A Powerful Syndicate Obtains the Control of the Discovery-The Public bpyright, 1887, by The Press Publishing Company (New Fork World).

[SPECIAL CABLE DESPATCH TO THE WORLD.] ON, Dec. 1. - The S. James's Gozette has created a great sensation by publishing a careful story from Wales giving the particulars of great gold discoveries there. It says that if the anticipations at present formed of the discovery are realized it will prove of the greatest importance not only to Wales but to the whole country. The gold has been found in the Mawddach Valley, about five miles from Dolgelly, Merionethshire. One of the bills, the Cader Idris, has been pierced and a lode of quartz extraordinarily rich in gold has been found. There is every indicat on of the presence of a gold-bearing strata of almost indefinite extent. fortunate owner of the property is William Pritchard Morgan, of Brynticion, Dolgelly, and of Queen Victoria street, London. Morgan has had experience in gold mining in Auslong experience in gold mining in Australia, and about four years ago he got the impression that gold probably existed in the place where it has now been found. Having made some experiments he decided four or five months ago to begin systematic operations. He engaged a bundred men and set them at work to bore into the side of the bill about half way hove the level of the river which flows through the valley, and after penet: attaz about one hundred and seventy feet they came upon a vein of quartz, in specimens of which gold could be plainly seen.

They had struck the lode diagonally and have now been carried across it for a distance of eighty feet. The lode was found to be 25 feet thick, and there are 100 feet of it above the level of the poring. To what depth it may descend into the heart of the hill is not known, but it is reported that the deeper they go the richer the ore becomes.

es this lode another of sixty-six feet in thickness has been found, and there are good indiestions of a third. The first lode has been so thoroughly stripped that about 15,000 tons of ore are setually in sight. Morgan has already stacked about 2,500 tons ready for treatment, and of this a great part is estimated by William Crookes, F. R. S., to yield six ounces to the ton from the stone

The lowest calculations point to an average of two ounces to the ton, which would quite justify the opinions expressed as to the magnitude of the discovery. The region over which the gold-bearing quartz is believed to extend has an area of two or three miles, but as gold has for generations been found in the beds of Weish rivers and in pockety form over large areas of the principality, it is probable that deeper and systematic working, as in Mawadach Valley, would yield equally surprising results elsewhere. As to the future of this undertaking, it may be said that upon Morgan's property forty-two lodes are distinctly indicated, and that upon his operations down to the present he has pent between £3,000 and £4,000.

The reason why Morgan has been so reticent hitherto, it is said, is to guard against the disastrous consequences that might have ensued if the old resources of Wates, us soon as their character had become known, had fallen into the hands of speculators. Morgan has now united in one comrehensive alliance all the various interests concerned in the auriferous region. It will be the ultimate task of this association to explore each romising locality in turn and open it out if it is und to be of a profitable character. A special company will be formed to work it, and the asso or snydicate will then go on with the next site. On the other hand, if the surface promises turn out delusive then the syndicate will mark the site off as one to which the public need not be attracted. Some of the greatest financial houses in the city are in the syndicate, the capital of which is already more than necessary, that he was struck with the appearance of the country as a gold-bearing one. In Queensland the discovery of such a field, he says, would have been de long ago, and had it taken place in the colony 50,000 men would have been on their way to it by this time. The gold is found here, as in Queensland, at the junction of the Cambrian and Silurian period, that is, of igneous and aqueous rock. No nity will be offered to the public of investing in the new enterprise.

ROBBED AND LEFT FOR DEAD.

A Young Man Found in a Car in with His Skull Crushed.

BUPPALO, Dec. 7.—When Car Inspector Bayer opened New York Central box car 4,732 early this morning, he discovered the body of a vonth of twenty or so lying insensible in a pool of blood on the floor with his skull smashed in. The car was one of a train that left Dewitt Station, near Syracuse, at 4.30 P. M. yesterday and arrived at 4.30 this morning. The young man was five feet eight inches in height, smooth-faced and well dree and one of his trousers pockets was turned inside and one of his trousers pockets was turned inside out. Two pieces of a broken watch chain were found in his vest pocket, but the robber or robbers had left the inside vest pocket untouched. In this was a long pocket-book containing post-gre stamps, calling cards, a slip of paper and nineteen crisp five-dollar sliver certificates. The name on the paper and on the cards was Charles Watterstraw, Macedon, N. Y.

The youth was taken to the general hospital and his skull trepanned. The blow was evidently made with a hammer or coupling pin, but is not necessarily fatal. Dr. Park saud to-night that his patient might live, and would certainly recover consciousness to-morrow. Delectives went to Dewitt and decided that no crime had been committed there. The train stopped at all stations tetween there and Buffalo. An investigation is being made at Rochester. Word was sent to Macedon, out no response had been received here at 10 P. M.

ROCHESTER, Dec. 7.—The man found in Buffalo in a car take morning is doubtless Charles Watterstraw, son of August Watterstraw, a farmer residing near M. cedon. Young Watterstraw has been working for a farmer in Ontario County and was expected home on a visit this work, but did not arrive. It is beheved that he was waylaid by carrobbers and resisted them, when they assaulted him and left him for dead.

Prohibition as a National Issue.

NEW HAVEN, CORD., Dec. 7.—The State Pronists assembled in convention to-day to elect delegates to the National Convention. Rev. Mr. Delano, of Norwalk, was made temporary Chairnan. Attorney Whitcomb, of this city, a stanch Republican, said that it was all wrong to have the temperance question mixed up with national notice. It ought to be voted on when no other issue was before the people. Watter T. Mills, of Ontomade a sitrifux argument for Prohibition in politics and finished by predicting that Whiteombwostid John the party. The delegates will be elected to-morrow.

Manufacturers Support the President.

[SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.]
St. LOUIS, Dec. 7.—The Collier White Lead Company sent Prosident Cleveland the following telegram to-day: " Acting upon the suggestion made in your annual message, we, as manufacturers of white lead, ask that the tariff on white lead and gray lead be reduced 50 per cent. for the public good."

The Strange Loss of Memory Which Affileted a Chicago Girl.

ISPECIAL TO THE WORLD. CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—The recent mysterious disap-pearance of Leonidas M. Hamilne, the wealthy tizen of the north side, has prought to light a strange story of audden loss of memory. Mr. Hamline's brother, Alderman Hamline, tells it, but declines to give any names for personal reasons. He says that an intimate friend of his called on him this morning and after asking about the search for the missing man, began to question the Alderman minutely about Mr. Hamline's physical condition. He discovered that he was subject to theuman minutely about Mr. Hamine's physical condition. He discovered that he was subject to rhemmatism and had a complaint of the heart. He went on then to say that it is stater-in-law, a handsome, aprightly girl of the north side, had suffered from just such discases, and that her memory had suddenly left her in a very remarkable manner. She was engaged to be 'married to a promising young business man. They were to be married in a week, He called upon her one night and they had a long talk about their marriage. The next morning the young woman was found to be very sick and insensible. She continued in a parily comatose condition for six weeks, when whe was as well as ever, except that and was as well as ever, except that she could not remember anything connected with her past life. She could not recall any iduality where she had been and did not remember her sister, nor even her lever nor any of her friends. She had been thoroughly educated at an Eastern college, but, singularly enough, all her education, knowledge of events and general information remained with her unimpaired, although she could not remember where she learned the iscts nor who was with her at school.

This was about six months ago. A few weeks after her recovery her sister, to whom she was dearly attached, diel. When she was told of it she manifested no concern whatever. When she alooked at her sister's face in the common she said it was the face of a beautiful woman, and it was said that she should die so young, our she had never seen her before and had no personal interest in her that she should die so young, ou she had never seen ner before and had no personal interest in her death.

After awhile she began to go out again into society, and it was necessary to introduce her to oid friends who had known her from childhood. She was even introduced to her lover. He began his courtship all over again, prospered in it as hefore and the two are again engaged to be married, although the young woman is sure she has known her affianced husband less than six months. She as anticipity and gay in society as she ever was ner smanced husband less than six months. She is as sprightly and gay in society as she ever was and shows the same general information, but all her past life has been alotted out. Two paysicians of New York, who make loss of memory a specialty, have been here treating the young woman without success.

of New York, who make loss of memory a specialty, have been here treating the young woman without success.

Alderman Hamiline's visitor suggested that such an affliction as this might have failen upon the missing man, and that he might be wandering in some clistant part of the country, without the slightest idea of his identity. He went on to say that since his sister-in-law's misfortune he had made investigations for other similar instances. He had found one where the foreman of Crane Brotaers' foundry in this city had auddenly disappeared, and all search for him was unavailing until nine years afterwards, when he waised into the foundry and asked for work under another name. He could not be induced to believe in his own identity, nor to recognize his wife, children or friends, although hundreds of winesses identified him beyond a doubt. The other case was where a man woke up in the Palmer House one morning and did not know where or who he was. He called a doctor, who telegraphed to the little town in Indiana from which the occupant of his patient' room was registered, and discovered that the man was the postmaster, who had been mysteriously missing for ten days. In both of these cases the aufferers had just such rheumatic and heart disorders as air. Hamiline suffered from,

Pretty Annie Langheim Jilts Her Betrothe and Marries an Old Sweetheart.

The gossiping tongues of society in the township f West New York, Hudson County, N. J., have been set going by an elopement which took place there on Monday night last. Miss Annie Langheim, the belie of the town, was engaged to be married to Frederick Rolff, an industrious young dorist of New Durham. Their marriage was to have taken place on Caristmas Eve. Stephen Grey, brakeman employed on the West Shore Railroad, a brakeman employed on the West Shore Railroad, was also one of Annie's suitors. His attentions to the young lady in de Rolff Jealous, but when he objected Annie laughed and said she had known Grey for a long time. Rolff informed Mrs. Langhelm about the affair and she cautioned Annie not to pay any more attention to Grey.

The next day Grey called upon Annie at her residence. Mrs. Langhelm confronted him and informed him that if he ever called again her husband would shoot him. Grey went away, but about 10 o'clock at night, accompanied by two companions, he returned and demanded admittance. Mr. Langhelm met him and threatened to kill him if he forced his way through the door and Grey left. Meanwhile Rolff had furnished a neat little cotage on Fischer avenue, to which he expected to take his brids. On Sunday night Rolff called upon Annie at her home. She received him coldly, and retured to talk to him, so he left. On Monday night he called again, and to his surprise learned that Annie had mysteriously disappeared. Her father said she had gone to New York shopping. On Tuesday Mr. Langhelm did not po to work as usus, but remained in the house. About 10 o'clock a measenger boy came to the door with the following desipatch:

Mr. Lamphelm, when he received the despatch, became enraged and threatened to shoot Grey if he ever returned. Rolff, who was in the room, fell upon the lounge weeping like a calld. The affair has created a sensation in the town.

VERNONA JARBEAU A HEROINE.

at the Risk of Her Life She Rescues a Baby from Being Run Over.

[SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.] NEWCASTLE, Pa., Dec. 7.—As the train on the Erie and Pittsburg road bound for Pittsburg, due here at 8.22 A. M., drew into the depot this morn. ng, Charles White and wife, of Erie, and their four-year-old child, en route to Altoons, stepped from the train to walk on the platform a few mo-from the train to walk on the platform a few moments. The baby ran from the platform to the track as a freight train approached. Everybody expected to see the child crushed to death.

The members of the Vernona Jarbeau Company were boarding the train for Fittsburg to go to Johnstown. Miss Jarbeau saw what happened as she emerged from the station, ran rapidly across the platform and first track, reached the child, and by great efforts succeeded in drawing the little one away just before the train rushed over that portion of the track where the child had stood a moment before. The train passed so close it turew the noble woman upon the ground, but neither she nor the child was burt. The parents of the child were so bally scared they could hardly thank Miss Jarbeau. All parties left on the train for Pittsburg.

AN UNDERGROUND ROAD PROJECTED.

The Vanderbilts Said to be Interested-The Proposed Route. It is now proposed to relieve the overcrowding of he elevated trains by building an underground railroad from the City Hall to the Grand Central Depot. But little has been said about it and those rumored to be interested are very reticent abou giving any facts. Among those said to be engaged in the enterprise are W. K. Vanderblit, Cornellos Vanderbilt, Chauncey M. Depew, Orlando B. Pot ter, the Rhinelanders, Asters and Lorillards. The plan embraces a four-track railway to run between ter, the Rhinelanders, Astors and Lorillarda. The plan embraces a four-track railway to run between the above-mentioned points through Elm street and Foaith avenue.

When it was proposed to widen Elm street to refleve the traffic on Broadway it was thought by many that it would be a good time to build an underground railway. The old arcade system under Broadway is said to be objectionable for many reasons and principally on account of the opposition of the property-owners. It is said in favor of this new plan that almost all of the property-owners along the contemplated route have given their consent and but little trouble is smitchpated. It is said that the plan has been perfected for some time and that all that remains now is for the company to form according to the railroad laws and gain the consent of the city authorities and the adoption by the Common Council of the plans submitted by the Board of Street Openings. The plan is 19 use two of the tracks for express train, which will make the run from the city fiall to the Grand Central denot in seven minutes. The other tracks will be used for local trains, which will make the run from the city fiall to the depots, which will be used for local trains, which will stop every four or five streets. Enfrance to the depots, which will be doned from be stored. As a motive power electricity is preferred, if it can be shown to be successful, but if not, in all probability the freiess steam engine, which is now used largely in Europe, win be adopted. By this system a quantity of superheated steam is stored with water, which by a mechanical arrangement it gradually converts into cleam sufficient to maniatin the necessary pressure. Underneats the tracks it is proposed to have another rinnel for gas and steam plipes, electrical wires and sewers. The cost of he undertaking is placed at not more than $2,000,000 to the line. This has a full probability the first and the plan for the opening of Elm street through the plan for the opening of Elm street through the contemplated

[SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.] PULARKI, N. Y., Dec. 7. - The disappearance of Mass Alice Wrightson, of Parish, in this county, heiress of the late Philip Wrightson, together with that of Henry McAulay, a railroad brakeman, has caused a great sensation in this section. Miss Wrightson inherits about $30,000 from her father.
She is a pretty blonde, has faschating manners and a superior education, having been attendant at Mount Holyoke Academy for two years. She is mieteen years of age and has been the belle in solling it to numerous different firms. She came home on vacation from school six weeks ago and became acquainted with Heary McAulay, a railroad brakeman at Parish. The acquaintance very quickly ripened into a love match.

The young lady's mother was scandalized at her daughter's intimate acquaintance with McAulay, whom she considers far beneath the young lady in social position and forbade McAulay to call upon or speak to her daughter. Miss Wrightson's brothers guarded her almost constantly and refused to have McAulay visit the family residence. Notwithstanding this the young lady had many clanuestine meetings with him and an elopement was arranged. She started ostensibly alone for a prayer-meeting has evening and has not yet returned. It is known that McAulay met her and, hiring a carriage from a farmer, drove to McXico, where cars were taken for the West.

Miss Wrightson mailed a letter at Parish last evening announcing her clopement. She said she could not live without McAulay and no matter what his iot she would shore it with him. Her brothers yow they will shoof McAulay, on sight, out have made no effort to find him or their slater. Many people at Parisa say that McAulay has a wile and child in Brooklyn. He is thirty-four years of age, far from prepossessing, and can scarcely read. Miss Wrightson will come in possession of her fortune in three years. She had $50 with her when she field last night.

WEDDED BY HER MOTHER'S BEDSIDE. Brilliant Public Ceremony Prevented by the Bride's Mother's Illness.

DETROIT, Dec. 7.—A brilliant society wedding ook place this evening at the home of ex-Gov. R. . Alger, whose eldest daughter, Miss Caroline Anette Alger, was married to Henry D. Shelden, the son of Allen Shelden, the millionaire dry-goods merchant and formerly the partner of the late Senator Zach Chandler. A sensation was created Senator Zach Chandler. A sensation was created among the invited guests just before the hour for the ceremony by the announcement that Mrs. Alger was too ill to be present in the parior at the wedding of her daughter, and the ceremony therefore took place at Mrs. Alger's bedside, the guests waiting in the pariors below for the sn-nouncement of the marriage, which was made a few moments later.

There was no other departure from what had been expected, and it is understood that Miss Alger is not seriously ill. The numerous social engagements in which she has takeh part during the bast week had probably overtaxed her strength. Young Mr. Shelden is a recent graduate of Yaie. He is an only child and is in business with his father.

The invitations numbered 1,000 and the Alger mansion was crowded with guests, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. John A. Logan, ir., Miss Hachel Sherman, a daugater of Gen. Sherman, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Pike, of Cheago. The bride was to have worn white satin, with a broad founce of duchesse point lace. Her superb necklace, with jendant of diamonds, was a gift from the groom.
The bridesmaids wore white silk and toile, carried bouquets of maiden-hair ferns, and remained in the tarlor below while the ceremony was being performed. Mr. and Mrs. Shelden will spend their honeymoon in Passadina, Cal., leaving as soon as Mrs. Shelden is sufficiently recovered.

A great crowd of passengers and marines—528 in number—swarmed on her upper deex. This was caused by the fact that 144 marines and seventeen officers of the United States frigate Marion, Commander Miller, were returning home as passengers from a three years' cruise in Asiatic waters. During that time the Marion has circumnavigated the globe, and her crew was dismissed at Panama. They were paid off and discharged at the Brooklyn Navy-Yard yesterday.

Why Mott Caven Canal is Not Dredged. The Mott Haven Canal has been complained of, napected and roundly abused in reports by Health officials for years past, and according to President Bayles, of the Health Department, there is no immediate prospect that matters will be improved. A few days ago Mr. Bayles received a letter from Henry L. Morris, who owns property near the pestilent ditch, and who thinks that the work of areaging the canal should begin at once. If it is delayed until warm weather, the health and even the lives of people in the neighborhood will be jeopar-ized. The responsibility for the nuisance rests upon the city, because the contents of the public sewers poliute the canal. Mr. Bayles replied yesterday, saying that the appropriation for doing the work would not pay for it, and he could do nothing.

No Troops Wanted.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 7.—Reports received here from Fairport, O., to-day announced serious trouble among ore-handlers and it was reported that four men had been shot. Sheriff Austin made a call on the Governor for troops and one con pany was ordered under arms. This evening it was learned that there had been no violence, the trouble having been caused by some strikers refusing to permit new men to go to work. The order for the troops was countermanded and the militia disbanded.

HUNTING FOR A PRIME MINISTER. President Carnot Offers the Premiership to M. Goblet.

Paris, Dec. 7. - President Carnot has summoned M. Gobiet and requested him to form a new Min-istry. M. Gobiet accepted the task. The President had previously requested M. Fallieres to form s Cabinet, but M. Failleres declined on the ground of ill health and lack of aufficient authority. President Carnot has definitely taken up his resdence at the Elyace Palace.

M. Clemenceau in his interview with President Sadi-Carnot yesterday, said, in relation to the formation of a Cabinet: "Whenever the Radicals are shown a reforming Minister they are willing to make great sacrifices to support him. "

A New Race-Track at Jerome Park. The Jerome Park Association has bought a tract of 115 acres of land near Bronxdale, in Westchester County, from Benjamin W. Bradford. It is understood that a new race-track is to be built there at once to take the place of the old Jerome Park race-track, which will be taken very soon by the city for a recervoir. Operations are to be begun this winter if the weather permits.
